

1U Cable Management Stand for Power Systems

AI Overview

A 1U cable management stand organizes rack cables efficiently, reduces tangling, and supports anti-sticking through D-ring or slot-based designs. Overview A 1U cable management panel is designed to fit standard 19-inch server racks and helps route, organize, and secure network, server, or power system cables. These panels prevent cables from sticking together or tangling, which improves airflow, reduces strain on connectors, and maintains a clean rack appearance. Key Features Material and Build: Most 1U panels are made from high-quality steel or cold-rolled steel, providing durability and strength for industrial, business, or home cabling setups. Cable Routing: Panels often include D-ring hooks or slots to guide cables. For example, the CABLMANAGER2 panel has five removable ABS plastic D-ring hooks, spaced 4 inches apart, which can rotate 90° to accommodate horizontal or vertical cabling. Anti-Sticking Design: The D-ring or slot system separates cables, preventing them from sticking together and reducing friction, which is especially useful for power and network cables that generate heat. Compliance: Some models, like the CABLMANAGER2, are TAA compliant, making them suitable for government or GSA Schedule purchases. Installation: Panels are easy to install in 2- or 4-post racks and can also help close open spaces in the rack to maintain proper airflow. Specifications Example Rack Unit: 1U Width: 19 inches (standard) Material: Cold-rolled steel or high-quality steel Cable Slots/D-Rings: 5-24 depending on model Dimensions: Typical height 44.4 mm, depth 74 mm, width 483 mm Accessories: Screws and nuts included for mounting Benefits Organized Cabling: Keeps power and network cables neatly separated. Reduced Cable Strain: Prevents bending or kinking of cables. Improved Airflow: Helps maintain proper cooling in server racks. Versatility: Can be used in ind...
