

Australian electrical distribution box companies

AI Overview

Top Australian companies for electrical distribution boxes include B&R Enclosures, Crossmuller, Allbro, Aussie Switchboards, and NAW Controls, offering a range of industrial, commercial, and residential solutions. Leading Manufacturers and Suppliers B&R Enclosures is Australia's largest manufacturer of electrical enclosures, switchboard systems, racks, and cabinets, with over 65 years of experience delivering high-quality, durable products for diverse industries. Crossmuller provides automation solutions and electrical services, including custom enclosures and control panels for small to large-scale projects, focusing on reliability and long-term performance. Allbro Australia operates as a national distributor with warehouses in Western Australia, New South Wales, and Queensland, offering plastic and glass-reinforced polyester enclosures with superior strength and durability. Aussie Switchboards specializes in low-voltage power distribution boards, main switchboards, meter panels, and motor control centers. They provide custom metal enclosures, Type Test certifications, and extended warranties, supported by a 2,000+ square meter workshop. NAW Controls supplies power distribution boards and accessories from trusted brands like Eaton, Gewiss, and Phoenix Contact. They offer single-phase and three-phase boards suitable for residential, commercial, and industrial applications, with IP ratings from IP40 to IP56 for indoor and harsh environments. iSupply Electrical offers premium distribution boxes and enclosures designed for safe, compliant installations. Their products range from compact 1-pole units to large 36-pole switchboards, including weatherproof and impact-resistant options for indoor and outdoor use. Key Considerations When selecting a supplier or manufacturer, consider: Customization: Ability to design enclosures to specific proje...
