

Fiber Hot Stripping Pliers Accessories

AI Overview

Fiber hot stripping pliers and accessories are specialized tools designed to safely and efficiently remove coatings from optical fibers, available in mechanical, thermal, and automated versions for various fiber types and applications.

Types of Fiber Stripping Tools

Mechanical Fiber Strippers: These are handheld pliers or tools that remove coatings from fiber ends or windows by precise cutting without damaging the glass core. They are suitable for standard telecommunication fibers (125 μm cladding, $\sim 250 \mu\text{m}$ coated diameter) and can also handle specialty fibers with thinner coatings or tight buffers (e.g., 900 μm) for high-density cabling.

Thermal Fiber Strippers: These tools use controlled heat to remove fiber coatings gently, minimizing stress on the fiber. They often feature adjustable temperature and timing settings, making them ideal for delicate fibers or high-strength splices. Thermal strippers can be compact, rail-mounted, or fully automated for laboratory and production environments.

Plasma-Assisted and Automated Strippers: Advanced systems use plasma technology to remove buffer materials up to 1200 μm in diameter without contact, preserving fiber strength and ensuring clean stripping for high-precision applications.

Accessories and Complementary Tools

Fiber Clamps and Holders: Provide stable positioning during stripping or splicing, compatible with various fiber diameters.

Replacement Blades and Cleaning Brushes: Maintain performance of mechanical and thermal strippers, ensuring clean cuts and preventing fiber damage.

Power Supplies for Thermal Units: Stable DC power sources for thermal strippers to maintain consistent heat.

Mid-Span Access Tools and Scorers: Allow access to fibers within cables and prepare fiber ends for splicing.

Key Features to Consider

Compatibility with Fiber Sizes: Ensure the tool matches the fiber's cladding and coating diameters. Adjustable or multi-size stripping...
