

Rwanda is divided into front and back ends

Overview

Administratively, Rwanda is divided into four provinces (intara): the Northern, Southern, Eastern, and Western, together with the City of Kigali, which serves as both the national capital and an independent administrative entity. These provinces and the city. Rwanda is located in Eastern Africa, south of Uganda, west of Tanzania, north of Burundi, and east of the Democratic Republic of the Congo. The largest and most notable lakes are mainly in the western and northern regions of the country, and several volcanoes that. In Rwanda, a country that has undergone significant transformation over the past few decades, these boundaries are not merely lines on a map; they are deeply intertwined with the nation's history, culture, and socio-political dynamics. Understanding Rwanda's societal organization requires a journey through its history, colonial influences, post-genocide. Rwanda is a landlocked country in East Africa.
